Poetical.

THE MILLER WOOING.

BY H. C. DODGE.

"Love meal little, love meal long,"
Sang the dusty miller
To his wheat art, and his song
Did a maize and thrill her.

"Bid me barley hope: Oh! give
Me one grain of comfort;
I would eat on thee and live
Holding on to some fort.

"In your eyes now love-looks shine;
There rice cereal pleasure;
Oh! hominy joy's are mine
Filling up my pleasure."

Come the maiden's cornful laugh
At the miller fawning.
"You can winnow girl with chaff—
Sir! to you good morning."

—Puck.

OUR MADONNA.

MISS ALCOTT'S POEM IN MEMORY OF HER SISTER, MADAME MAY NIEKERK.

A child, her wayward pencil drew
On margins of her book
Garlands of flowers, dancing elves,
Bird, butterfly and brook.
Lessons undone, and play forgot,
Seeking with hand and heart
The teacher whom she learned to love
Before she knew 'twas Art.

A maiden, full of forty dreams,
Slender and fair and tall
As were the goddesses she traced
Upon her chamber wall.
Still laboring with brush and tool,
Still seeking everywhere
Ideal beauty, grace and strength,
In the "divine despair."

A woman, sailing forth alone,
Ambitious, brave, elate,
To mould life with a dauntless will,
To seek and conquer fate.
Rich colors on her palette glowed,
Patience bloomed into power;
Endeavor earned its just reward,
Art has its happy hour.

A wife, low sitting at his feet
To paint with tender skill
The hero of her early dreams,
Artist, but woman still.
Glad now to shut the world away,
Forgetting even Rome;
Content to be the household saint
Shrined in a peaceful home.

A mother folding in her arms
The sweet, supreme success;
Giving a life to win a life,
Dying that she might bless,
Grateful for joy unspeakable,
In the brief, blessful past;
The picture of a baby face
Her loveliest and last.

Death, the stern sculptor, with a touch,
No earthly power can stay,
Changes to marble in an hour
The beautiful, pale clay.
But love, the mighty master, comes,
Mixing his tints with tears,
Paints an immortal form to shine
Undimmed by coming years.

A fair Madonna, golden-haired,
Whose soft eyes seemed to brood
Upon the child whose little hand
Crowns her with motherhood.
Sainted by death yet bound to earth
By its most tender ties,
For life has yielded up to her
Its sacred mysteries.

So live, dear soul! serene and safe,
Throned as in Raphael's skies,
Type of the love, the faith, the grief
Whose pathos never dies.
Divine or human, still the same
To touch and lift the heart:
Earth's sacrifice is Heaven's fame,
And Nature truest Art.

Select Story.

NELLIE'S LEAP-YEAR PROPOSAL.

'Really, Catharine, I don't wonder at Mary's surprise at your behavior. You forget that you are Frank's widow. You are too forward.'

I hesitated a moment, really anxious to keep my temper; for I was Frank's widow, and the speaker was his mother.

'Forward!' cried Mary. 'Indeed, you would have been shocked last night, mother. There was Mr. Vance urging her to sing, and acting as if Herbet Halstead was her only friend, when it was only as a married woman——'

'Yes,' interrupted Julia, 'I think, mother, if you can't make Kate realize that she is a married woman, with a daughter nearly six years of age, you had better——'

'Send me away,' I broke in, unable longer to control myself,' it's not the first time that hint has been thrown out, and if it were not for little Nellie, poor child, I would go away to earn my living at once. You drive me desperate, I declare I will marry again and get rid of this——' and then I burst into tears.

'Marry again! How will you do it? Oh yes! A good joke!' cried Julia, with a shrug at my tears. 'Dont you see Mary, it's leap year!' and she laughed derisively.

'Who'll you ask?' sneered Mary. Herbert Halstead? Julia, you'd better look out!'

'You may sneer,' I cried, choking my tears I was now thoroughly angry. 'But I tell you, if no one would ask me to marry him I believe I should ask Mr. Halstead, and—he'd have me!'

I had fairly taken up their own weapons of personalities, which I scorned. The moment after ashamed of myself, I ran to my room, to put on my bonnet to get out of the house. I looked in the glass, as I put the crape bonnet, with it's widow's cap and heavy veil, on my head. I saw a face to which black was very becoming, though it was not a remarkably pretty face. It looked not more than twenty five, some say not more than twenty; but I was really over twenty four. Married at eighteen to Frank Strong, I had been a petted wife for four years, and now a widow of two. The thought of the happiness of four, and the loneliness of the two, as I look at the face surrounded by crape made the tears come again; but I brushed them away, resolutely, and went out knowing that a brisk walk would do me more good than anything else. I went out without my darling, my inseparable companion; my little baby girl, Nellie. This alone showed how troubled I was. Truth to tell, I was too angry to trust myself with the little one, who might have asked to have our conversation explained, for she had been in the room at the time. I could only hope that at five years old a child did not understand me.

Soon after I left, my mother-in-law and her daughters went out for a drive. They invited Nellie to go; but she, feeling, perhaps, that they had not treated mamma well, refused. Soon the front door bell rang, and like all children, Nellie must run to see who was there. She managed to open the door herself, and there stood her prime favorite among the gentlemen that visited the house, Mr. Halstead, or, as she had called him since her babyhood, Uncle Herbert. He had been her father's chum and dearest friend, and loved the child for Frank's sake.

'Ladies home, Nell?'

'I'm home,' she said, 'and I dess mamma 'll be in soon.'

'Very well. Let's go in the parlor and have a chat.'

Nellie sat in his lap, discussing the merits of cocoanut cakes and sugar almonds a little while; but suddenly, dropping her candies in her lap, she asked, 'What's leap—leap—I fordet. Do you know what's it?'

'Leap? leap frog? leap. year? Is that it?'

'Yes. What is it?'

'Why, it's a year when you ladies can ask the gentlemen to marry you. But you see, Nellie, you're too young—or wouldn't you ask me?'

'Oh, no! I wouldn't ask you. Mamma's going to ask you.'

The young man nearly dropped the child, and then folded her close to him, lest perhaps, he should forget her again. 'What do you mean, darling?' he asked. 'Now think, Nellie, but don't tell Uncle Herbert anything of your own make up.'

'Oh! no! really, truely, bless me, she's alive—isn't that what you say when you're true? Well?'—the little tot gave a long sigh and paused, Herbert not daring to interrupt her, lest she should see his anxiety, and minature woman that she was, should refuse to satisfy him.

'Well she repeated, 'you see, they does call mamma, so they does. To day morning, they maked mamma cry to-morrow, (she would call yesterday to-morrow,) they scolded her again, because she wouldn't sing, and then they said she was fordard. What's fordard?'

'Fordard, indeed!' ejaculated Herbert, under his breath. 'If I had been some others now. But Nellie, how about leap year?'

'Oh, yes! I most fordot, didn't I? Well, you see, mamma said—but, oh, Uncle Herbert, I never showed you my too weenie, new little kittens! They's only little sings, wivout eyes. Come out to piazza, and I'll show you.'

It was no use to be impatient. The young man knew the child too well for that, and so they went out and inspected the kittens. Then he tried to coax Nellie back to the subject.

'Oh, I fordot!' she said. Only they made mamma say—'

'What did they say, darling? I'll give you a big doll—'

'With real hair?'

'Yes, yes! Real hair and eyes, and—oh, nothing. But did they say I wanted to marry—'

'They say mamma wasn't a girl, and she was old; and mamma said—oh, there's mamma. Mamma, didn't you ask Uncle Herbert to marry you? He wants to know.'

I had come in, looking for the child, and that was the speech I heard. I felt ready to sink with mortification.

'Kate, darling, can't I hope you'll let me ask? You must know that I hoped, when these (touching my veil and black dress) were put aside, that I could ask you to let me care for you, and at once. Come, darling,' as I hid my face in my hands. 'You've asked me to marry you; and I must name the day; and I say now, at once. Let's give them a good thorough surprise. I can guess how they've treated you.—Come, now, get ready this fairy, this blessed little darling that has brought me my happiness, and we'll go to your own minister,"

I tried to refuse, but I was so weary of living with mother-in-law, that at last we three slipped out of the house; and dear Dr. S——, who had baptised me, married me to Frank, and knew Herbert well, married us.

We drove back, and reached the front door as the family were returning. Julia, who wound appropriate Herbert, stepped forward.

'Good evening, Mr. Halstead. So you met Kate on the steps? Strange!' with a glance at me, as if I had planned to meet him.

'Not at all, Miss Julia,' said Herbert. 'My wife and I just called in to receive your congratulations, and to leave little Midget here for a few days.

No tableaux I have ever seen was half so comical as the one those three made. I really felt for Julia; for I knew she cared for Herbert. She gained self possession quickly, and congratulated me, whispering, as she kissed me: 'Lo you asked him?'

My husband heard, and answered:

'No, Miss Julia, she did not ask me. Through other means, thank God, I learned the one I loved was unhappy; and, as I hoped, for more than a year past, to soon ask her to be my wife, I persuaded her to marry me at once. Leap year privileges are still open for those who choose to use them.'

We are quite an old married couple now; for three years have passed, but Herbert and I still often laugh over Nellie's leap-year proposal.

"Strength, Accuracy, Purity." No doubt some of our readers have noticed Dr. Brownings advertisement in this paper, and wondered what the words above quoted mean. It is explained as follows: Dr. Browning has discovered a sure and rapid cure for Coughs, Colds, and all the attending complications, the neglect to instantly check which causes so much misery to the human race, Beginning at the end, the last word means he uses only the purest drugs, the next words means they are accurately compounded and the first word (strength) means that his C. & C. Cordial is not adulterated, but contains all of a quantity of medecine necessary to produce a certain cure in all conditions resulting from a cold. For sale by all druggists at 50cents per bottle. Also by the proprietor, at 1117 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

DANBURY News: 'A good Rochester pastor, a widower, proposed to a young lady a short time since, but was rejected. His feeling had the second severe test yesterday, when a widow sent him the following text to preach from: 'You ask and receive not, because you ask amiss.'—James iv., 3.'

THE BRAKEMAN AT CHURCH.

On the road once more, with Lebanon fading away in the distance, the fat passenger drumming idly on the window pane, the cross passenger sound asleep and the tall thin passenger reading Gen. Grant's Tour Around the World, and wondering why Green's August Flower should be printed above the doors of 'A Buddhist Temple at Benares.' To me comes the brakeman, and seating himself on the arm of a seat says:

'I went to church yesterday.'

'Yes? I said, with that interested inflection that asks for more.' 'And what church did you attend?'

'Which do you guess?' he asked.

'Some union mission church?' I hazarded.

'Now,' he said, 'I don't like to run on these branch roads very much. I don't often go to church, and when I do I want to run on the main line, where your run is regular and you go on schedule time and don't have to wait on connections. I don't like to run on a branch. Good enough but I don't like it.'

'Episcopal?' I guessed.

'Limited express,' he said, 'all palace cars and two dollars extra for a seat, fast time and only stop at the big stations. Nice line, but too exhaustive for a brakeman. All train men in uniform, conductor's punch and lantern silver plated, and no train boys allowed. Then the passengers are allowed to talk back to the conductor, and it makes them too free and easy. No, I couldn't stand the palace cars. Rich road, though. Don't often hear of a receiver appointed for that line. Some mighty nice people travel on it, too.'

'Universalist?' I suggested.

'Broad guage,' said the breakman; does too much complimentary business. Everybody travels on a pass. Conductor doesn't get a fare once in fifty miles. Stops at all flag stations and won't run into anything but a union depot. No smoking car on this train. Train orders are rather vague though, and the train men don't get along well with the passengers. No, I don't go to the Universalist, though I know some awfully good men who run on that road.'

'Pysbyterian?' I asked.

'Narrow guage, eh?' said the brakeman; 'pretty track, straight as a rule, tunnel right through a mountain rather than to go around it, spirit level grade, passengers have to show their tickets before they get on a train. Mighty strict road, but the cars are a little narrow, have to sit one in a seat and no room in the isle to dance. Then there is no stop over tickets allowed; got to go straight through to the station you're ticketed for, or you can't get on at all. When the car's full no extra coaches; cars built at the shops just to hold so many and nobody else allowed on. But you don't often hear of an accident on that road. It's run right up to the rules.'

'May be you joined the Free Thinkers!' I said.

'Scrub road,' said the brakeman, 'dirt road bed and no ballast, no time card and no train dispatcher. All trains run wild and every engineer makes his own time, just as he pleases. Smoke if you want too, a kind of a go-as-you please road. Too many side tracks, and every switch wide open all the time, with the switchman sound asleep and the target lamp dead out. Go on as you please and off when you want to. Don't have to show your ticket, and the conductor isn't expected to do anything but amuse the passengers. No, sir, I was offered a pass, but I don't like the line. I don't like to travel on a road that has no terminus. Do you know, sir, I asked a division superintendent where that road run to, and he said he hoped to die if he knew. I asked him if the general superintendent, could tell me, and he said he didn't believe they had a general superintendent, and if they had he didn't know any thing more about the road than the passengers. I asked him who he reported to, and he said 'nobody.' I asked a conductor who he got his orders from, and he said he didn't take orders from any living man or dead ghost. And when I asked the engineer who he got his orders from, he said he like to see anybody give him orders, he'd run that train to suit himself, or he'd run her in the ditch. Now you see, sir, I am a railroad man, and don't care to run on a rail road that has no time, or makes no connections, runs nowhere and has no superintendent. It may be all right, but I've railroaded too long to understand it.'

'Maybe you went to the Congregational church?' I said.

'Popular road,' said the brakeman, 'an old road, too; one of the very oldest in this country. Good road bed and comfortable cars. Well managed road too; directors don't interfere with division superintendents and train orders. Road's mighty popular, but its pretty independent, too. Yes, didn't one of the division superintendents down East discontinue one of the oldest stations on this line two or three years ago? But it's a mighty pleasant road to travel on. Always such a splendid class of passengers.'

'Did you try the Methodists?' I said.

'Now you're shouting,' he said with some enthusiasm. 'Nice road, eh? Fast time and plenty of passengers. Engines carry a power of steam, and don't you forget it; steam guage shows a hundred and enough all the time. Lively road; when the conductor shouts 'all aboard,' you can hear him to the next station. Every train light shines like a headlight. Stop over checks are given on all through tickets; passenger can drop off the train as often as he likes, do the station two or three times and hop on the next revival train that comes thundering along. Good whole souled, companionable conductors; ain't a road in the country where the passengers feel more at home. No passes; every passenger pays full traffic rates for his ticket. Wesleyan air brakes on all trains, too; pretty safe road, but I didn't ride over it yesterday.'

'Perhaps you tried the Baptist?' I guessed once more.

'Ah, ha!' said the brakeman, 'she's a daisy, isn't she? River road, beautiful curves; sweep around anything to keep close to the river, but it's all steel rail and rock ballast, single track all the way and not a side track from the roundhouse to the terminus. Takes heaps of water to run it through, double tanks at every station, and there isn't an engine in the shops that can pull a pound or run a mile with less than two guages. But it runs through a lovely country; there river roads always do; river on one side and hills on the other, and it's a steady climb up the grade all the way till the run ends where the fountainhead of the river begins. Yes, sir, I'd take the river road every time for a lovely trip, sure connections and good time, and no prarie dust blowing in at the windows. And yesterday, when the conductor came around for the tickets with a little basket punch, I didn't ask him to pass me, but I paid my fare like a little man, twenty-five for an hour's run and a little concert by the passengers thrown in. I tell you Pilgrim, you take the river road when you want—'

But just here the loud whistle from the engine announced a station and the brakeman hurried to the door shouting:

'Zionsville! This train makes no stops between here and Indianapolis!'—Hawkeye.

Why suffer sleepless nights, with a distressing cough, while a quarter of a dollar invested in 'Sellers' Cough Syrup' will give instant relief.

PERSONAL PECULIARITIES.

About forty years ago I had a lad in my employ who had the habit when unexpectedly spoken to of pricking up his ears in so decisive a manner as to remind one of the ears of Press or of Tray when suddenly called. Marie Louise, the second wife of Napoleon, was in the habit of amusing the ladies of her court at their private soirees by turning her ears almost completely round, and in a manner closing them up. She did this by a peculiar motion of the jaw, and she is said to have prided herself on the exploit not a little.

A man I knew well wore an enormous shock of raven hair, and would allow himself to be lifted by the hair from the ground by any one who was strong enough to do it, and to be swung to and fro like a pendulum, or to be dragged along the floor.

The faculty of sleeping at will was one of the endowments of the first Napoleon, who it is said could sleep any length of time, long or short, and awake at the time, almost to a minute, he had resolved upon.

Among the muscular moments not common I have noticed several instances of persons who could throw back the four fingers of either hand until they stood quite perpendicular to the back of the hand and wrist. Other instances I have seen, though but a few of persons who can project the lower joint of the thumb almost into the hollow of the palm. In neither of these cases is the use or the ordinary symmatry of the hand at all affected.

Of left handed people we have all seen many, and they abound among the working classes; but of the atibandist, or both-handed, that is of persons who can do everything with either hand, as well with one as with the other, I have known but one in the whole course of my life. This was an orphan boy who had no paternal care, but had been left almost to himself from infancy. Quick active, and sharp-witted, he had taught himself many things tolerably well, could draw fairly, could play the fiddle and the flute, and wrote admirably with unrivaled rapidy with either hand.

There are many persons who, from causes they can never explain, have a repugnance, almost amounting to horror in some cases, for certain animals. The French General Junet, who was as cool as a cucumber amidst a storm of bullets and would face the cannon's mouth unmoved, would take to his heels at the sight of a live frog, and would not recover his equanimity for hours.

I have known a man who could not touch mutton, however cooked, while he would eat heartily of any other meat. Some there are in whom the thought of eating hare or rabbit excites loathing; some who would starve rather than eat shell-fish of any kind; and there are a few to whom butter and cheese are abominations. Others are equally prejudiced against certain vegetables, but why or wherefore they cannot tell you.—Leisure Hours.

County Commissioners and Assessors.

Auditor General Sheil some time since issued his instructions to county commissioners in regard to the assessment and collection of State taxes. Heretofore there has been a laxity of duty among assessors in ascertaining the amount of "all moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens f the State" which is "liable to a State tax of four mills." There is no excuse for this as the assessors are furnished by the county commissioners with a statement of the property and things taxable for State purposes under the laws, and the forms of assessment of the same. The determination of the Auditor General is shown by the following instructions to the commissioners of the various counties throughout the State. He says:

I deem it to be my duty to call the attention of all county commissioners, and township Assessors, to the several duties relating to taxation enjoined upon them respectively by law. Heretofore the assessments of personal property, especially moneys at interest, in many counties have been very carelessly and negligently made. Nearly all the requirements of the law have been disregarded. It may be safely estimated that at least one-half of the moneys at interest subject to taxation for State purposes have not been reached by assessors. This should not be so. The policy of the law taxing money capital is not to be taken into consideration. The law itself is imperative. It imposes a State tax of four mills on every dollar of the value "of all moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of the State." It makes it the duty of the commissioners of the several counties to require the (township) assessors to ascertain the amount, description and value, of the property taxable for State purposes. It makes it the duty of assessors to "require of every taxable in his district to furnish a statement in writing, or partly written and partly printed, showing the aggregate amount of money due and owing by solvent debtors to such taxable," etc.

It is hoped that commissioners will refuse to accept any assessment which, upon examination, proves to be deficient, or not in accordance with the requirements of the law and that such defective assessments shall be returned to the assessor for correction. It is the determination of this department, that the laws relative to taxation for State purposes shall be enforced.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D C. Feb. 3d 1880

Those North Carolinian colored people who are going over the hills to the poorhouses of Indiana will have no excuse for being deluded hereafter. That is, if any of them can read. Yesterday two of the Indiana radical agents of the exodus certified before the Senate special committee to the motives which induced them to enter into it. One of them was to sell limestone ridge land at five and six dollars per acre to the negroes, and another was to colonize them in close Democratic counties. One of the men said he hoped in that way to get "everlastingly rid of the Democratic party in his section." He will hardly do that. Organizing and colonizing ignorance in order to defeat a party in a distant State is a new thing in our politics.

There is diversity of opinion as to the propriety of surrendering up the House of Representatives not the Hall but the House itself to outsiders, but so long as such a course is taken it will be well if no more use is made of it than on our last evening, when, the Speaker in his chair and the Representatives in their seats, a clear statement was made by an Irish citizen of some of the troubles of Ireland. It is not likely that just the same difficulties will ever be experienced by this country as were portrayed by Mr. Parnell last evening and our interest in the affairs of Ireland, except in the matter of dollars and cents, we may send as individuals, is and must be purely sentimental. The government can give no money relief.

But at least the information was happy in one respect. The House has done no business for two weeks except to pass resolutions concerning Senator Chandler, and there was an appearance of life last night.

In the Senate yesterday, as on every day for a month, numerous petitions were presented against an enormity in the way of proposed legislation known as the "sixty District Bill." It is a measure of commissioner of Pensions, Bently. That is, he is the person put forward as the father of it. The object is this, Congress has at various times from the foundation of the government passed extremely liberal pension laws. The expense now is very large and will probably be larger. The bill in question nullifies those laws. It does not do this openly, but by making it an impossibility for any one to prove up his pension claims. It compels every claimant to bring all his witnesses four or more are necessary in each case to some point in each state to there wait the government. Some of the "Sixty Surgeons," get ready to hear them. It is a device to keep from the soldiers what the government has promised them. It will not pass.

HILTON.

LIMIT OF LIABILITY OF RAILROADS.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania rendered an important decision on Monday of last week, fixing the limit of the liability of the Pennsylvania railroad for damages in case of death by an accident at $5,000. Stephen Langdon was killed in a railroad accident near Pittsburg, in 1877, and his widow sued the company for $20,000 damages. The Allegheny county court gave her a verdict for $5,712, and the company appealed on the ground that under the act of 1869 there could be no recovery greater than $5,000. The new constitution provides that there shall be no limit to the amount for injury; but the Pennsylvania railroad contended that they had never accepted the provisions of the new constitution, therefore are not amenable to any legislation under it. The supreme Court decided in favor of the railroad company.

A heavy storm of snow and wind prevailed along the Atlantic coast on the 3rd inst. Damage was done at Long Branch, a grain elevator was capsized in the North river, a boy on a railroad train at Englishville, N. J. was blown from the platform while passing from one car to the other, and killed. Considerable damage was done to shipping at different points.

The World's Fair of 1883.

A SYNOPSIS OF THE BILL TO BE INTRODUCED IN CONGRESS.

The world's fair committee, of New York, will cause to be introduced in congress an act "to provide for celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the treaty of peace and the recognition of American independence by holding an international exhibition of arts, manufactures and the products of the soil and mine, in the city of New York in 1883.

The act creates the United States international commission, a corporation in the city of New York. It provides that a commission of two commissioners from each state and one from each territory of the United States and one from the District of Columbia, to be appointed in sixty days by the president on the nomination of the governors of the states, together with the members of the committee of finance; it recommends a number of men to be designated as the United States international commission, which shall fix the date of the fair and a site within the corporate limits of New York; that the commission shall meet there and report to congress at the next session a suitable date for opening and closing the exhibition, a schedule of appropriate ceremonies and other matters; that they serve without pay and that the United States shall not be liable for any expenses of the exhibition; that upon notice from the governor of New York that buildings, site, etc., are provided for, the president shall make proclamation of the time and place of the exhibition and invite foreign nations thereto; that the commission may receive subscriptions of capital stock to an amount not exceeding $12,000,000 to be divided into shares of $10 each, entitling each to a vote in the choice of a finance committee, twenty-five in number, which with the officers of the commission shall take care of the accounts, reporting to commission quarterly, and who shall be ex-officio commissioners; that the officers of the commission elected by the commission and the members of the committee of finance shall hold office for one year, when there shall be a new election; that the commission shall prepare a complete classification of exhibits, and shall appoint all judges and examiners, guards and other subordinate officers of the exhibition, and award premiums, and generally have charge of all intercourse with the representatives of foreign nations; that the corporation may issue bonds not in excess of its capital stock, secured by mortgage upon its property and income, present and prospective, the stock certificates to be prepared by the treasury department, and counterfeiting them to be punishable as if they were United States currency. But nothing in this act to create any liability of the United States, direct or indirect, for any debt or obligation incurred nor for any claim by the United States international commission for aid or pecuniary assistance from congress or the treasury of the United States in support or liquidation of any debts or obligations created by said commission; and providing that nothing in this act shall be so construed as to override or interfere with the laws of any state; that no member of said corporation, whether shareholder or otherwise, shall be personally liable for any debt or obligation which may be created or incurred by the United States international commission; that as soon as practicable after the exhibition is closed it shall be the duty of the corporation to convert its property into cash, and after the payment of all its liabilities to divide its remaining assets among its stockholders pro rata.

The Grant Mockery.

It is evident from our latest advices from Harrisburg last night that the Republican State Convention will to-day go through the mockery of formal instructions for General Grant for President. We say "mockery," because such a deliverance must be made in utter contempt of the plainly-expressed and well-known wishes of the Republicans of the State. It is frankly admitted by the leaders who are under contract to deliver the Philadelphia delegation to Grant, that but one of the forty-six who are to speak for the eighty-thousand Republican voters of this city in the convention is in favor of Grants nomination. Forty-five of them sincerely believe that his candidacy would be offensive to their constituents and likely to defeat the party in national contest, and the leaders who are to deliver the delegation to Grant heartily agree in deprecating a declaration in his favor. But the mockery of a solid vote for Philadelphia in favor of Grant, s nomination will be given to-day. Mr. Charles Thomson Jones is single and and alone as a Grant man in the delegation. McManes and Leeds have protested against the Grant instructions as perilous to the party and to Cameron. But when their protests were unavailing with Cameron they have delivered their flock to swell the triumph of the omnipotent Senator.

And what is true of Philadelphia is true of the whole State. There is not a single county or district in Pennsylvania that would declare for Grant's nomination if a fair expression of the Republicans could be had. Pliable committees have made pliable delegates until Cameron possessed a clear majority of the convention, and then the Blaine men were notified that they must submit if they would not invoke the vengeance of the dominant power of Pennsylvania. It is not surprising that thus held in the lion's mouth they hesitate to assert themselves, and that Blaine's apparent strength may be cut down to his seventy-five instructed delegates on the test vote to-day. It is known that about one-hundred of the two-hundred and fifty-one delegates would vote squarely against the nomination of Grant but for the persistently passed fears that Blaine may be exposed fatal resentments by antagonizing Senator Cameron's purpose to give the State and the country an exhibition of his supremacy, and it is confessed even by most of the prominent actors in shaping the so-called deliberations of the convention that there are not two-score of the whole two-hundred and fifty-one delegates who desire Grant's nomination or who believe that his candidacy would assure success.

Senator Cameron will achieve a great personal and political triumph to-day as the undisputed leader of the convention. But, cui bono? When he shall won his victory and comes to count his gains, what shall it profit him? The press of the State will declare the deliverance of the convention to be a mockery and a lie—a wanton offense to the considerate convictions of the Republican people and a fraud upon the Republicans of the nation. It must make unrest and fretfulness in the organization where there has been comparative or absolute submission hereto and it is not beyond the range of possibility that it may date the decline and fall of both Grant and Cameron and make the Republican party the sacrafice of immoderate ambition. Such is the lesson foreshadowed from Harrisburg to-day. —Phila. Times 4th inst.

The report that Samuel J. Tilden and Miss Ranck, sister of J. M. C. Ranck, Esq., are to be married this week, is denied.

The Democratic National Committee has been called to meet in Washington on the 23d of February next, to select a time and place for the meeting of the Democratic National Convention. Three cities are competing for the honor of having the body assemble within its borders, they being Chicago, Indianapolis and New York. It is expected the Convention will be called for some time between the 3d and 17th of June next. Immediately upon the announcement of the date the State Committee of Pennsylvania will come together and choose the State Convention's meeting which it is expected will be between the 15th of March and the 15th of April.

—A correspondent writing from Mercersburg, Franklin county, says that the existence of iron ore in inexhaustible quanities has been discovered near that place. Recent excavations on the farm of Mr. John Webster developed a bank of ore which will yield from sixty to seventy-five per cent. iron. This is but a fair specimen of the rich banks existing on other lands, the ore of which is seen cropping out above the surface, and which must sooner or later be opened out. With railroads facilities, ore in inexhaustible quantities, hundreds of acres of timber and limestone in abundance there is no reason why Mercersburg should not become a leading iron-manufacturing town.

GET UP A CLUB.

We will send the COLUMBIAN free for one year to any person who will send us four new names with $6.00 in cash. This is an easy way to pay your subscription if you already take the paper, and an easy way to get it if you are not on the list. There is not a spot in Columbia county where four new names cannot be obtained in a few hours' time, if some one will make the effort. Sample copies of the paper will be sent to any address in the county on request. Those of our subscribers who do not care to make the effort, will confer a favor by calling the attention of some active person to this notice, who will undertake it.

The fact that lawyers sometimes use large words is witnessed by this exception to a Master's report, filed by A. Ricketts, Esq., at Wilkesbarre. 'The whole report is a heterogenous conglomeration of agglutinated absurdities, of such ubiquitous erroneousness that no spot of soundness can be found in any part of it.'

You can't fool an Elmira girl. When her 'fellow' rises from his seat in the theatre between the acts, and says, 'I'll be back in a moment,' she dazzles him with one of her most reliable smiles, and pulling him back with the remark, 'I brought some with me,' coyly slips into his hand a pinch of cloves or roasted coffee.

The Union Square Comedy Company will appear in the "Two Orphans" next Monday night at the Opera House. This is an excellent troupe and the play is a very popular one, having been given in the large cities for hundreds of nights in succession to crowded houses They performed in Harrisburg on Tuesday night last, and the Patriot speaks highly of them. Dont fail to see this celebrated drama. Tickets for sale at G. A. Clark's Book Store. See advertisement in another column.

The board of directors of Bloom Poor Directors met at their office at their regular time of meeting, the last Saturday of each month as required by law, and made the following appointments for the ensuing year. Steward Thomas McBride, Matron, Mrs. Thomas McBride, Secretary, R. S. Ent, Treasurer, Wm Kreamer, Attorney, Geo. E. Elwell.

The members of the Democratic Standing Committee from the districts composing the Bloom Poor District met at the Exchange Hotel on Monday afternoon. The following persons were present, D. Lowenberg, G. A. Clark, Bloom; Jacob Terwilliger, West Scott; John Kressler, East Scott; A. J. Hess, Sugarloaf; Daniel Welliver (substitute) Greenwood. William Kreamer of Bloom and Jacob Terwilliger of West Scott were placed in nomination as candidates for directors of the poor, and the meeting adjourned.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. B. F. Fruit died suddenly last Thursday evening about nine o'clock, of paralysis. She had felt as well as usual during the day, but at about six o'clock complained of not feeling well, and gradually grew worse and in three hours breathed her last. She was nearly fifty three years of age Mrs. Fruit was an estimable lady, and during her residence here made many warm friends. The funeral took place on Sunday morning. After a brief service at the house the remains were taken to Jerseytown where services were conducted in the Methodist church by Rev. O. D. S. Barclay. The bereaved husband and son have the sympathy of the community in their heavy affliction.

At a regular meeting of Washington Lodge No. 265 F. & A. M. held February 2d, 1880 The death of Bro. William A. Case was announced, whereupon the following resolutions were unanimously adopted

WHEREAS, we have heard with sincere regret of the deceased of our late Bro., William A. Case it is therefore

Resolved that this lodge has by death sustained the loss of a useful member, society a good and honorable citizen, the poor, a true friend and the members of his family a kind and affectionate husband and father.

Resolved, That as an expression of our sorrow and respect, these resolutions be entered on the minutes of the lodge, and to be published in one or more papers of the town and that the lodge be draped in mourning for 30 days.

ANOTHER SWINDLE.

Notwithstanding the oft repeated warnings of the newspapers, unwary men continue to permit themselves to be deluded by wily swindlers and confidence tricksters. A batch of fourteen promissory notes have been received at the Honesdale National Bank for collection from a Troy, N. Y., law firm. They were procured from Wayne county men last fall by a lightning rod agent. The mode of procedure was as follows: The agent supplied the farmers' buildings with rods and accepted in payment for the same a promissory note, payable at the farmer's house, Jan. 1, 1880. Then a written agreement was entered into between the agent and the lightning rod purchaser stipulating that payment of interest on the note only was to be asked and that the principal would not be demanded until the expiration of ten years. Upon these ostensibly easy terms, sales of lightning rods were made rapidly. The notes thus procured passed into the hands of second and third parties and on their maturity there could be no other alternative than payment, the written agreement between the agent and the farmer, providing that payment was not to be demanded in ten years, of course being of no force. A number of the notes have already been paid and we do not hear that the payment on any of them is to be contested. The same game was played last fall on a number of New York State farmers, and we learn from some of our exchanges from that state that a large number of them are resisting the payment of the notes on the grounds that they were obtained through fraud.—Honesdale Independent.

ROHRSBURG NEWS.

ROHRSBURG, February 2, '80

Business is booming along at a good rate here at present; our enterprising merchants Black and Hess seem to be doing a good business this winter.

Will Appleman is traveling through Montour county, selling a patent right. Mr. Clem Henry's school has been closed on account of his sickness, but he opened school again this week.

Willie Preston and Schuyler Kramer are again attending Orangeville Academy.

Little Maggie Albertson gave a Juvenile leap year party for the youths of this "Nook" last Friday night in Appleman's hall. A few married people were present and did most of the dancing. After partaking of refreshments at Albertsons the party broke up at twelve o'clock and old and young wended their weary way homeward.

Mrs. Miles Albertson and sister are visiting friends in the west.

Miles Albertson now has his saw mill a few miles above here and a great quantity of lumber passes here every day.

Thos. Reece and family are now getting ready to leave for their new home in Iowa, and are making their last visit to their numerous friends and relatives. They have ever been kind and obliging neighbors, and their absence will be sadly felt, and the wishes of all is that prosperity and happiness will be with them in their distant home.

POOR PEN.

ACRES OF FISH.

WHOLESALE VIOLATION OF THE LAW.

About one mile below this place the canal company own a reservoir of several acres in area. During the summer, as long as the canal is full, it is supplied with water from the canal, flowing into the reservoir at the head and out at the lower end. During the winter, when there is no water in the canal, there is generally from one to three and four feet of standing water over the reservoir. It has been a fine harbor for various kinds of fish, and during the summer every year many were taken out with rod and line. Last week, however, all this was changed. A set of fish pirates were several days engaged at draining the reservoir by digging an outlet sufficiently deep at the lower end to let all the water out into the canal, thereby leaving all the fish in the reservoir exposed on top of the mud and pools. Troops of people went down from town on Friday to get fish. There they lay in scores and by schools—by hundreds and by thousands. All parties had to do was to wade in and pick up the fish as they lay helpless and powerless. In many places they lay so thick that they were raked out with rakes! Many helped themselves to strings of the very nicest; some carried away basketsful, and several parties hauled two wagon loads away; after which there were still many left, and many more were carried off on Saturday. It is said that many thousands of small fish were trampled in the mud and otherwise destroyed, and of course what are now left will perish for want of water. It is claimed that in pursuance of an understanding the pirates had with our State Fish Commissioner, several bushels of small fish were carried into Penn's Creek. This trespass upon the canal company's property may make one nice question to settle, and the violation of the fish laws another There is certainly here a big opportunity for the vindicators of the law and the rights of property.—Selinsgrove Times.

The concert at the Opera House last Saturday evening for the benefit of St. Paul's Sunday School Library was a success in every way. The net proceeds were about eighty dollars. The programme was well selected and carefully prepared. The following ladies and gentlemen took part, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Wirt, Mrs. H. H. Grotz, Miss Ada Brower, Miss Maud Freeze Miss Mame Knapp, Miss Mary Elwell, Miss Annie Sloan, Messrs. J. R. Townsend, Clark Sloan, W. Hart, C. M. Drinker, F. P. Drinker J. H. Maize, B. P. Vannatta and Bruce Wells. Messrs. Brooks, Metherell and Rupert kindly assisted in the instrumental parts with cornet, violin and cymbals, for which they have the thanks of the company. The costume of the "Old Folkes" was worn, and created much amusement and admiration. The ladies appeared in old fashioned dresses, some of which were quite as becoming as the fluffs and flounces of the present day. The gentlemen wore knee breeches and ruffles and powdered wigs. The dresses of the Quartette Club were gorgeous and very becoming to the wearers. They were imported for the occasion.

The choruses were well sung, the playing of Mr. and Mrs. Wirt on the "Harpsichord and fiddle," was done with much expression, as was also the Wedding March, by Misses Freeze and Elwell, and Mr. Wirt. The singing of the Quartette Club pleased the audience, as it always does, and the solos of Mrs. Grotz and Miss Brower were beautifully rendered. Mr. Wirt sang "Nancy Lee" very nicely, and was encored, as were several other pieces on the programme. Miss Freeze and Mr. Wells sang "Reuben and Rachel" in Quaker costume, and brought down the house. Misses Brower and Freeze, and Messrs. Wirt and Townsend rendered "Come where my love lies dreaming" in excellent style. The singing of "Russia" by the old fashioned choir was very funny. Miss Annie Sloan played a solo on the piano and displayed much skill in its execution. There are not many towns that can furnish material for an amateur concert that would surpass this one. The entire performance would have done honor to a professional troupe. The credit of the entertainment belongs principally to P. E. Wirt, Esq., who gave his time and efforts to the arrangement and preparation of the programme, and who pushed the matter through when others seemed somewhat indifferent. While all the others worked assiduously to make it a success, the Sunday school would probably not have received this benefit but for his efforts. He and all those who took part are deserving of the thanks of the public for the excellent entertainment.

ORANGEVILLE ITEMS.

Mr. David Herring, an aged citizen of this place, has been confined to his bed for nearly two weeks with rheumatism.

Mr. Samuel Sharpless has been for a long time a sufferer from neuralgia.

Miss Mary Staten of Utica, Ohio, has been visiting Maggie Eves in this place.

Rev. Houts is making a fence to protect the terrace in front of his dwelling from cattle

John Cadman and H. R. Kline are going to locate a portable sawmill on their timber land about two miles above this place. They expect to commence sawing about the first of May.

One of our old and esteemed citizens has always been an advocate of temperance and an anti-tobacconist. He still opposes the use of intoxicants, but that morsel which he rools about so awkwardly in his mouth and which causes him to make such wery faces, is tobacco.

Most people who have black eyes are proud of them, but one of our amateur pugilists has a black eye which he feels ashamed of. He brought it home from spelling school one night lately, but he says the other fellow has the worst of the bargain. The knight of the razor had better keep shady when away from town, but caution in his case is not necessary.

On last Monday evening during the temporary absence of Mrs. David Herring; the children, the grandchildren, and a great grandchild took possession of the old homestead, spread the festive board with natures bounties, and then awaited her return whose birthday they came to celebrate. Upon entering her home the unexpected faces of all her children from near and far greeted her with welcome smiles.

BERWICK LETTER.

EDS. COLUMBIAN:

Enough snow fell last night and to-day to make good sleighing, but the wind has left many parts of the roads bare.

Those who have ice-houses to fill begin to look pleased. They have almost dispaired laying by a store for the warm months.

The demand for houses is not decreasing but to the contrary increasing. It is safe to say that fifty houses would find occupants in a short time at very fair rents, as the rents at all times depend on the demand for houses, it may be safely inferred that rents are high.

Michael Frantz, an old citizen, is dangerously sick. It is sincerely hoped he may recover, though the physician is not very sanguine. Frantz has had more than his portion of the ills of this life. Twice visited by fire, a son helpless in bed for two years, and now himself helpless. His sickness is the result of exposure to cold and dampness during the while that he was constructing his new work shop.

The Literary society has again resumed. A meeting was held last Friday evening. An essay on "Scripture" was read by J. Kurtz—short but very interesting. A. Reichard recited a poem, humorous and well executed Messrs. Smith and Stewart supported the negative of the question "Are political parties beneficial to a country," and Messrs. W. Bowman and Freas sustained the affirmative. The latter succeeded in winning the decision of the judges in their favor.

JANUARY WEATHER.

The following is a meterrological record of the weather at Catawissa during the month of January, 1880, compiled from observations by W. G. Yetter.

Barometric pressure corrected for temperature and elevation. Highest pressure on the 24th, 30.681 inches; lowest on the 20th, 29,518 inches; monthly range 1.163 inches.

Temperature of the air—Highest temperature on the 28th, 60 degrees; lowest on the 14th, 3½ degrees average temperature for the month 37.6 degrees; average of same month during previous year (1879) 22 degrees; monthly range 56½, 14th 32½ degrees and the least daily range 6½ degrees on the 6th inst.

Moisture.—Number of days on which rain or snow fell 15; total amount of rain fall and melted snow 2.39 inches; amount of snow which fell during the month 8 inches; rain fall and melted snow during same month in previous year (1879) 1.88 inches.

Wind.—The highest hourly velocity of the wind during the month was 32 miles from the west on the 20th inst.

Lee & Walker, in their 'Musical Bulletin,' of January call attention to their fine style of music. 'Thoughts at Eve,' by Shannon, is very popular; this piece is about the same character as 'Silvery Waves,' but more exquisite melody. The 'Operatic French Lancers' is the liveliest set of lancers, composed by Porter. Everybody wants to dance on hearing them played. 'The Storm' composed by H. Weber, is an imitation of nature. A Shepherd is going home with his flock, while he is playing on his flute, a storm approaches; the thunder, roaring of the water, crash of trees and fire bells are to be heard in succession. Their whole selection is fine, embracing all the newest music and at lowest prices. Address all letters to Lee & Walker, 1113 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

See a woman on horseback in another column, riding near Speer's Vineyards, with a bunch of Grapes from which Speer's Port Grape Wine is made, that is so highly esteemed by the medical profession for the use of invalids weakly persons and the aged.

WONDERFUL CURES.

Rev. F W. Bockholz, Wasecs, Minn., used the St. Jacobs Oil in the case of a lady of his congregation who had been bed-ridden with Rheumatism for seventeen years. She used St. Jacobs Oil for three days, and was able to leave her bed.

Mr. R. Schaefer, No. 31 Brown street Allegheny City, Pa., had the Rheumatism for eight years and had used every known medicine with out relief. A single bottle of St. Jacobs Oil cured him.

Gustav A. Heilman, Esq., Editor of Pittsburgh Daily Republican, suffered with Rheumatism for two years, and lay many a night unable to sleep on account of terrible pains. Two bottles of St. Jacobs Oil cured him.

Mr. F. Wilke, Lafayette, Ind., reports a case where a man suffered so badly with Rheumatism that he could not move. His legs were swollen, and he had the most terrible pains. Twelve hours after the first application of the St. Jacobs Oil the pains were gone and the swelling had disappeared.

Mr. Henry Schaefer, Millersburg, Ohio, was cured of Rheumatism in the hips.

Mr. F. R. Witt, Cleveland, Ohio, Rheumatism in the leg. Cured after three applications.

Mr. Henry Loar, Patriot, Ohio, had such pain in his shoulder that he could not move St. Jacobs Oil cured him after a few applications.

Mrs. Vrena Gugelmann, aged 59 years, living in Rochester, N. Y., Rheumatism in legs; could not walk. Used bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and felt, as she asserts, like new-born.

Christian Hanni, Esq., Youngstown, Ohio, a full of joy over the wonderful cure of his wife by St. Jacobs Oil. For twelve long years she had suffered with Neuralgia in the head and often had the most terrible pains. Half a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil cured her entirely.

Mr. Wm. Reinhardt, Elmore, Wis. reports as follows: St. Jacobs Oil is really a wonderful remedy, for I could mention dozens of cases where it has proved its magical influence. One case in particular I will state: I know a man who has suffered with Rheumatism for the last twenty-four years, and of late he could hardly move around. After using a few bottles of St. Jacobs Oil he was entirely cured.

B. Seim, Esq., South Adams, Massachusetts writes: Allow me to inform you how much good St. Jacobs Oil has done in this neighborhood. A woman had the Rheumatism so badly that she could not even attend to her washThree applications of St. Jacobs Oil cured her Her joy seemed to have no bounds.

At the last named engagement General Boynton was seriously wounded while leading his regiment up the heights.

—DISCRIMINATING AGAINST SINGLE MEN.—The coal operators at New Straitsville, Ohio, have given occasion for another strike in a curious and characteristic way. The Consolidated mining company last week discharged a number of single men, the understanding being that the rest of the operators should follow suit. The married miners employed by that company, however struck to have the men taken back, and this has delayed or prevented the consummation of the scheme. The reason given for the crusade against single men as that the wages paid them do not go back to the operators' pockets, through the general store and check system as surely and speedily as the wages paid to men who have families to support.

BEST IN THE WORLD!

ABSOLUTELY AND CHEMICALLY PURE.

ARM AND HAMMER BRAND. CHURCH & CO'S SODA. SOL. CARB.

AND

SALERATUS

Which is the same thing.

Impure Saleratus or Bi-Carb Soda (which is the same thing, is of a slightly dirty white color. It may appear white, examined by itself, but a COMPARISON WITH CHURCH & CO'S "ARM AND HAMMER" BRAND will show the difference.

See that your Saleratus and Baking Soda is white and PURE, as should be ALL SIMILAR SUBSTANCES used for food.

A simple but severe test of the comparative value of different brands of soda or saleratus is to dissolve a dessert spoonful of each kind with about a pint of water (hot preferred) in clear glasses, stirring until all is thoroughly dissolved The deleterious insoluble matter in the inferior soda will be shown after settling some twenty minutes or sooner, by the milky appearance of the solution and the quantity of floating flocky matter according to quality.

Be sure and ask for Church & Co.'s Soda and Saleratus and see that their name is on the package and you will get the purest and whitest made. The use of it with sour milk, in preference to Baking Powder, saves twenty times its cost.

See one pound package for valuable information and read carefully.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

CAPCINE

A WORD TO THOSE WHO USE POROUS PLASTERS. It is a universal acknowledged fact that BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS ARE SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS. The great demand for them has caused a number of unscrupulous parties to make and sell worthless imitations under similar sounding names. As the market is flooded with inferior plasters selling at any price it is important for the consumer to know which is the best. It is well known that some of the cheap plasters have been examined and found to contain injurious ingredients which make them dangerous to use, causing paralysis and other diseases. CAUTION—See that the word CAPCINE on each plaster is correctly spelled.

TWO WONDERFUL CLOCKS.

One of the most curious clocks ever made was completed not many years ago by Karl Ketler, a German miner of Pennsylvania. It so nearly resembles the Strasburg as to seem almost an imitation; but Ketler declares that he has never seen the great clock of Strasburg, and that he never even heard of it until his own work was nearly completed. At any rate, some account of Ketlers clock will be of interest to American boys and girls, as the first piece of mechanism of this sort our own continent has produced.

Ketler was occupied three whole years in the construction of this wonderful timepiece, during the last of the three working at it day and night, and often so absorbed in his undertaking as to forget both food and sleep. He was a man of very limited education, without any of the advantages of travel or wide observation, and the whole work of this curious clock was performed with no other tools than two common jackknives.

The clock is eight feet high and four broad, has sixteen sides, and is surmounted by a globe, over which is a cross. There are four dial-plates, all carved in curious, emblematic figures of most unique design. One of the dials shows the day of the month another, the day of the week; a third, the minutes and seconds; and the fourth, the hour of the day. Above the dial-plates, a gallery extends about half way around the clock, and in the center of this gallery is a carved wooden figure of the Savior, while at each end is a small door opening into the body of the clock. Over the right door is an eagle, and over the left a rooster. Twice a day,—that is, at noon and midnight,—there is a sweet chiming of bells, during which a small door at the right opens, twelve wooden figures, personating the twelve apostles, march in procession, with St. Peter at their head, all along the gallery. Each in turn, as he passes the Lord, bows with face toward him, and then, resuming his former position, walks slowly forward till he reaches the door at the left, which they all enter. When Peter salutes the Lord, the cock crows; and when Judas, who is in the rear with one hand shielding his face and the other grasping a bag, reaches the cock, it crows twice. At the extreme corners of the clock, placed on pedestals, are beautifully carved statutes of Moses and Elias, and in the rear are two obelisks of the Egyptian style, inscribed in hieroglyphics and designed to symbolize the ancient period of history. The clock will run thirty-two hours, and by special attachment, the procession of the apostles may be repeated whenever desired.

But the most astonishing thing I ever heard of in the way of a time piece is a clock described by a Hindoo rajah, as belonging to a native prince of Upper India, and jealously guarded as the rarest treasure of his luxurious palace.

In front of the clock's disk was a gong swung upon poles, and near it was a pile of artificial human limbs. The pile was made up of the full number of parts for twelve perfect bodies, but all lay heaped together in seeming confusion.

Whenever the hands of the clock indicated the hour of one, out from the pile crawled just the number of parts needed to form the frame of one man, part joining itself to part with quick, metallic click; and, when completed, the figure sprang up, seized a mallet, and walking up to the gong, struck one blow that sent the sound pealing through every room and corrider of that stately castle. This done, he returned to the pile and fell to pieces again. When two o'clock came, two men arose and did likewise; and so through all hours of the day, the number of figures being the same as the number of the hour, till midnight, the entire heap sprang up, and marching to the gong, struck, one after another, each his blow, making twelve in all; and then fell to pieces.

Piles! Piles! Piles!

Do you know what it is to suffer with piles? If you do, you know what is one of the worst torments of the human frame. It cures constipation, and then it tonic action restores health to the disease bowels, and prevents recurrence of the disease. Try it without delay.

MAPLE SUGAR MAKING.

The best sap weather is when the wind is south-west, with fleecy clouds by day, and clear nights cold enough to freeze a little. The sap will run as long as these conditions prevail. A south wind threatening rain soon stops it; though if a soft snow falls instead, it will run rapidly. The sugar-maker has no use for rain; it wets his jacket, soaks his wood pile and increases the quantity of water to be evaporated, and the water running down the trees, steeping moss and lichens on its way, and falling into the sap, gives a dark stain to the sugar that nothing short of chemical means will remove. In a good "run" the sap accumulates, and the fires must be kept going all night. There is no particular fun in this when one has gathered sap all day, but the great store tubs must be emptied to make room for the next day's gathering; so after supper the one who is to boil till midnight wends his way to the works through the deepening twilight. The familiar woods look solemn and mysterious in the uncertain light. The owl takes great interest in the sugar-maker's fire at night, and perched on a tree just outside the circle of light hoots loudly at intervals for hours. If you have two pans, and propose to boil a large quantity of sap, you will have no leisure to speak of. You fill the "feed tub," and set the faucets at the bottom to run as large a stream as can possibly be evaporated, then you urge the fires to the utmost. The pan bubble and foam: the fragrant steam rolls away in clouds. You see the light of other fires in the distant woods where other lonely watchers like yourself are at work, and after awhile the waning moon comes up and her light struggles in among the trees. If the air is clear and still the tinkle of the falling drops of sap can be heard at a distance of many yards, a clear melodious sound, like a single stroke on a tiny silver bell; and as the pitch varies somewhat according to the size of the bucket or the depth of sap, or for some other reason, you may enjoy a unique concert if twenty or thirty trees stand near enough together to enable you to hear them all at once. Now several drops fall at once, then the intervals gradually widen, then narrow again, while others chime in, giving rise to a sort of irregular rhythm and cadence, no one notices it in the day time, and the distance at which it is audible at night is surprising. The only other sound is the rush of the creek in the valley far below, swollen with the tribute gathered by the sun from every snow-bank within its basin.

Married ladies will find in 'Dr. Lindsey's Blood Searcher' just what they need. Try it.

CURING AND FEEDING CORN FODDER.

Cornfodder, as we term it, is very good feed for farm stock when cut at the proper time and well prepared for the barn. I do not think this fodder has been appreciated at its true value, though there has been much thought and written on the subject. When I was a boy I never saw an acre of corn treated in the same manner that every farmer practices now in Vermont as far as I know.

It was not uncommon in my young days in New Hampshire for farmers to let the bulk of their cornfodder stand until it is thoroughly ripened or killed by successive frosts. The top stalks were removed about September—first of the month in average years. When the corn commenced to harden these stocks were bound in small bundles and stood on the adjacent grass land, and when cured were very nice fodder. But the bulk of the fodder still remained, and by the exposure and ripening was ruined. When the corn was harvested the cattle would eat it, and so they will dry corn cobs, were not one per cent. of nourishment can be found. One man says he plants a small kind of corn, that the fodder may also be of a fine quality. I think I can suggest an improvement on his plan.

I have a kind of eight rowed corn which is as large as any of the kind I have seen. I get over a hundred bushels of ears per acre with ordinary culture. But the stocks are small, not growing much if any more than six feet high. A year or two since I had very good luck in curing them in our way and fed them to my oxen and cows, and I can easily carry in my arms at once every stalk they left.

My usual way of preparing this fodder is as follows:—Cut the corn at the ground when about half glazed or hardened; while the stocks are yet green bind about seven or eight hills in a bundle, and put from three to five bundles in a stook; set them firmly on the ground and put a band around the top of the stook. A short rain or two will not injure them. When sufficiently cured husk them in the field, or cart to the barn and husk there. You will be pleased with the corn, which will be ripened and ready for the crib.

I usually cut my oats when the straw is about half turned, and if I have good luck in curing it makes very palatable food. After threshing, I take of straw and cornfodder and with alternate layers mow them in some convenient place, and feed out in November and December. There will be but little waste, and cornfodder must be very dry if this mow does not mould, as it probably will in most cases. But the cattle do not mind the mould, and eat this prepared fodder readily and do as well as on good hay. Farmers can feed from a mow of cornfodder as above and from a mow of hay alternately if they prefer.—Vermont Corresp. of the Germantown Telegraph.

BULL RUN.

Some one wanting to know, has been putting it plumply to Gen. Joe Johnston why he didn't follow up the advantage of Bull's Run by the capture of Washington. 'There are two reasons,' he said, 'myself and the Potomac.' I had reached the age when knew that an American soldier could not ford a river a mile wide and eighteen feet deep.' In brief Washington was on the wrong bank, fortunately.

There is a season of failures, everything failed except Days Kidney Pad.

THADEUS STEVENS.

When 'Thad' Stevens was a young man in the Pennsylvania Courts, he once lost his case by what he considered a wrong ruling of the Judge. Disgusted, he banged his law books on the table, picked up his hat, and started for the door with some vigorous words in his mouth. The Judge feeling that his dignity was assailed, rose impressively and said: 'Mr. Stevens!' Mr. Stevens stopped, turned and bowed deferentially. 'Mr. Stevens,' said the Judge, 'do you intend by such conduct to express your contempt for this court?' And stevens, with mock seriousness, answered, 'Express my contempt for this court! No, sir! I was trying to conceal it your Honor.'

Regulate the Secretions.

In our endevors to preserve health it is of the utmost importance that we keep the secretory system in perfect condition. The well known remedy Kidney-Wort, has specific action upon the kidneys, liver and bowels. Use it instead of dosing with vile bitters or drastic pills. It is purely vegetable and is prompt but mild in action.

A Paris omnibus, one of the very large three-horsed kinds, recently broke exactly into two pieces. The first half went off with the driver, who was unconscious of what had happeded. The hind part remained poised on its two wheels—it is not said how long—but all the passengers had time to get down. Fortunately there were but few. Only one was seated in the exact middle of the vehicle an old lady, who when, the division of the omnibus occurred, was deposited somewhat suddenly on the pavement.

A memento of the great Napoleon a. Tallohassee, Florida, is a gilt china tea-cup, adorned with the Emperor's monogram and a colored representation of the harbor of Otranto, Italy. It also bears the date 1813. The relic is thought to have found its way to Florida in care of the son of Marshal Murat, who went to that State in 1821.

Again Victorious.

At the International Dairy Fair, held in New York, December 1879, a committee of the most expert butter makers made the most careful tests of all the different Butter Colors. The result was the unanimous award of the prize to Wells, Richardson & Co's Perfected Butter Color. Again this original and perfect color secures a victory as it always does when there is honest and fair competition with any of its competitors. Sold by Druggists and Merchants. Take no other.

CATARRH

NEVER-FAILING RELIEF

AFFORDED BY

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

It is a fact that can be substantiated by the most respectable testimonials ever offered in favor of any proprietary medicine, that the Sanford's RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH does in every case afford instant and permanent relief. No matter of how long standing, or how severe the disease, the first dose gives confident evidence of its value in the treatment of Catarrhal affections that confidence in it must rest in its ability to do all that is claimed for it. The testimony of physicians, druggists, and patients is unanimous in its favor, and the accumulating evidence is in point of respectability superior to any ever before obtained in favor of a popular remedy. The proprietors, therefore, may justly feel proud of the position the RADICAL CURE has attained, and believe it worthy of its reputation.

10 YEARS A SUFFERER.

From Hon. Theo. P. Bogert, Bristol, R. I.

Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—Feeling thoroughly convinced of the efficacy of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH, I am induced to drop you a line to say that although I have been sceptical of all the nostrums advertised as "radical cures," I have never found anything that possess such relief and ultimate cure as that of SANFORD'S.

I have been afflicted with this dreadful disease for more than ten years, and until recently could not be induced to persevere with any until I read the letter of Mr. HENRY WELLS, and can truthfully say that after using five or six bottles I am thoroughly convinced of its curative properties. Hoping that others similarly afflicted like myself will be induced to make the trial, I am, gentlemen, very truly, etc.

THEO. P. BOGERT.

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES

KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

DR. R. H. CLARK, South Hero, Vt., says, "In cases of KIDNEY TROUBLES it has acted like a charm. It has cured many very bad cases of PILES, and has never failed to act efficiently."

NELSON FAIRCHILD, of St. Albans, Vt., says, "it is of priceless value. After sixteen years of great suffering from Piles and Costiveness it completely cured me."

C. S. HOGARON, of Berkshire, says, "one package has done wonders for me in completely curing a severe Liver and Kidney Complaint."

IT HAS WONDERFUL POWER. WHY?

BECAUSE IT ACTS ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS AND KIDNEYS AT THE SAME TIME.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia and Female disorders.

KIDNEY-WORT is a dry vegetable compound and can be sent by mail prepaid.

One package will make six quarts of medicine.
